Pacific Islander Student Association (PISA)

The Pacific Islander Student Association is a diverse club that is easy to become a part of through signing up and getting involved. Many of the club's members are female, which isn't surprising because in Pacific Island cultures women are very highly thought of and respected as prominent family member. Every year, the PISA holds a luau for its members featuring dancers from each of the Pacific Islands. To become a part of the club, contact the president Vilca Havili at vhavili@dm.dixie.edu.

Sigma Tau Delta – English Honors Society

When asked to describe the membership of Sigma Tau Delta, club President Kim New responded: “The members of our club are all unique and wonderful. We have members from all different backgrounds, with a variety of personalities and one thing in common—our love of English literature and learning. Our members are pretty active and aside from socializing with each other at club events a lot of us have formed really great friendships and spend a lot of time helping and supporting each other in a number of ways.” Many of the Sigma Tau members are women, and the club is always looking for ways to help others succeed, whether it is help with a paper, workshopping a creative writing piece, or giving dating and life advice. The club offers many opportunities for all students, including a chance to apply for an annual English convention where members can present research and other creative works. As a group, the club is heavily invested in its membership and wants to see every member succeed. To become a part of the club, contact Kim New at kimholtnew@gmail.com.

The SHE Club

The SHE club is an all-female club at Dixie State University. The club is comprised of fellow women attending Dixie State who meet every Thursday night to spend quality time with each other, do fun activities, or help with service projects around campus. Together, this fun group of women attends most Dixie events such as games and dances, and participates in many Dixie traditions. The SHE club strives to make a difference in the community, promote Dixie Spirit, and foster a sisterhood of lifelong friends made in college.

When asked how the club supports women, SHE club President Olivia Hutchinson responded: “Our club supports women by providing them with an opportunity and a space to make friends while in school. College is hard, and finding a true group of friends that will stick by you is even harder. Having this community of women who support and provide friendship to each other, and setting aside time each week to spend time together, really helps girls to feel at home and ease into the college experience, as well as make it more fun!” If you are interested in joining the SHE club, please contact Olivia at olivia.hutchinson@dmil.dixie.edu.

The Office of the OMBUDS (Campus Organization)

If you have never heard about The Office of the OMBUDS, it would be a good campus resource to check out. The mission of the office, run by Amijo Comeford and Katie Armstrong, is to provide a confidential place for faculty, staff, and students to voice concerns, develop options, and problem-solve. The office functions to assist parties in reaching mutually acceptable agreements in order to find fair and equitable resolutions to concerns that arise at the university. The office is a good place for all students to get advice on any potential problems with other students or staff, how to handle difficult conversations, and find ways to prevent or resolve conflict. Additionally, the Office of the OMBUDS is a confidential space to work through options on how to proceed through conflicts—especially those unique to women’s circumstances. You can contact the Office of the OMBUDS at ombuds@dixie.edu.
